

This is the main screen. Due to the simplicity of the app we will avoid a splash page. Instead users will see this message box the first time they use the program, and when the ? button is pressed.

% L337 refers to how often the L337 version of a letter is used. This does not update dynamically. If this is changed, it will affect how future characters are written, but not the current ones. The refresh button allows the user to update every character based on currently selected percentage. The user will be able to do this over and over until he gets a result he likes.
